

GETTING READY.

The Sound Money Democrats are Determined.

SHARKEY GETS THE MONEY.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE COMPLETE.

New York, Dec. 3.—More than 100 prominent National Democrats interested in the formation of a permanent organization in this county met tonight at the Hoffman House in response to a circular sent out by Corporation Counsel Francis M. Scott. Among those present were: Mr. Scott, John DeWitt Warner, Wheeler H. Peckham, United States District Attorney McFarlane, Police Commissioner Andrews, Robert B. Roosevelt, ex-Gov. Hugh S. Thompson, of South Carolina; Coroner Hoerber, John Jerome and Charity Commissioner Faure.

There was an interchange of views, and the appointment of a committee of fifteen to draw a plan for strengthening the National Democratic organization in the county was authorized. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

SHARKEY

San Francisco, Dec. 4.—A certified check for the amount of the purse was given to Sharkey by Referee Wyatt Karp after the fight Wednesday night. Some of Fitzsimmons' backers talked of enjoining the bank from paying the check. It is claimed as the check was certified the bank has no option but to pay its holder. It is also claimed that the decision of the referee is final and not susceptible to appeal to the courts.

Physicians and newspaper men who participated in or witnessed the examination of Sharkey after he was carried from the ring say he was visibly wounded below the belt. Doctors say his condition is serious but not dangerous.

Witnesses of the fight declare this morning that a foul blow was undoubtedly delivered, but many believe it was accidental.

Corbett's Challenge.

New York, Dec. 4.—At the conclusion of the Fitzsimmons-Sharkey fight in San Francisco, James J. Corbett telegraphed Sharkey, as follows: "Tom Sharkey, San Francisco, Cal.: I am very sorry at Mr. Fitzsimmons' foul tactics in his contest with you, which prevented your getting a decision over him in a full ten-round contest without a foul. I am ready to meet you on or before January 1, 1897."

JAMES J. CORBETT.

"December 3, 1896, 2:40 a. m."

The Very Latest Guesses.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The latest tip on the cabinet is: Secretary of State—Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts. Secretary of the Treasury—Mark A. Hanna, of Ohio. Secretary of War—Gen. Horace Porter, of New York. Secretary of the Navy—Charles A. Boutelle, of Maine. Attorney General—William R. Day, of Ohio. Secretary of Agriculture—Judge Waymire, of California. Secretary of the Interior—Henry C. Payne, of Wisconsin. Postmaster General—H. Clay Evans, of Tennessee.

Judge White Is Judge.

Frankfort, Dec. 4.—Judge James D. White, who has been elected to succeed Joseph R. Landies, who has filled the unexpired term of the late John R. Grace, arrived in Frankfort, yesterday, and received his commission from the Secretary of State. He was sworn in this morning as a Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Attacked a Congressman.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 4.—A "Times-Star" special from Lexington says that Wm. Emmull, of Bell county, made an attempt to kill Congressman D. G. Colson. Emmull was pursuing an eloping daughter, and finding her seated by Colson, accused him of aiding the elopement and made his attack. He was prevented from doing harm.

Want the Extra Session.

Cincinnati, Dec. 4.—It is believed here that strong pressure will be brought to bear on Gov. Bradley by the national Republican committee to induce him to call an extra session in order to make sure of a Republican successor to Senator Blackburn.

Snow in South Carolina.

Columbus, S. C., Dec. 4.—The most destructive snow storm that has occurred in this state for many years is now raging. Several inches have already fallen and there is no apparent prospect of an immediate cessation.

A Nonagenarian Dead.

Stanford, Ky., Dec. 4.—Greenberry Bright, the oldest man in Lincoln county, died here early this morning at the advanced age of ninety-four years. Mr. Bright was one of the early settlers of this county, where he has spent a long and useful life. He was one of the most prominent and wealthy men in the county. A lifelong Democrat he was one of those advised widely as to intending still to uphold the standard of his party by voting for Bryan.

Ex-Convict Jailed.

Crittenden, Ky., Dec. 4.—Bob Routen, an ex-convict, has been running amuck in this county, and has terrorized the community. He was arrested this morning and committed to jail to await trial on numerous charges.

Big Money for Horses.

Lexington, Dec. 4.—At yesterday's horse sales J. B. Haggan, of California, bought Candelmas for $15,000. Imp. Order was knocked down at the auction sale to J. B. Haggan for $25,000.

Probably No Recommendation. Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—President Cleveland has completed his message to Congress and it is believed to contain no recommendation with reference to Cuba.

CUBA'S LOSS.

General Sanchez, a Rebel Cuban Leader, Killed in Battle.

With General Marti He Planned the Revolution—His Death a Severe Loss.

New York, Dec. 4.—The Cuban Junta has received from Cuba confirmation of the reported death in battle of Maj. Gen. Serafin Sanchez, inspector general of the insurgent army, at Las Damas, Santa Clara province, on November 20. An expedition was expected from Jamaica and part of the forces of Gens. Carrillo and Sanchez started for the coast to receive it. The insurgents numbered 1200 men, but before reaching the point where the expedition was to disembark the column was attacked by 3,000 Spaniards under Gen. Impe. A desperate battle ensued, which lasted five hours, darkness making it impossible to continue the fight. In the battle, the Spaniards suffered a loss of 170 killed and 90 wounded. The Cuban loss was 43 killed and 26 wounded.

Gen. Sanchez, mounted on a small horse, was in the thickest of the battle. A column of Spanish soldiers surprised the insurgents by an attack from the rear and Gen. Sanchez received a bullet in the back. He remained on his horse, however, and although his companions tried to induce him to retire he refused, saying that he was not badly wounded. Ten minutes later he fell from his horse and soon expired. His last words were: "Viva Cuba Libre."

Gen. Sanchez was born forty-two years ago in Santi Spiritu district, Santa Clara, his father being a wealthy planter. In Key West he was allied with Jose Marti the present revolution, and its efforts are due in a large measure to his work.

SPANIARDS QUIT THEIR POST.

And Join the Army of the Insurgents. Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 3.—A special to the Citizen from Key West says: News has been received here that the troops of the Spanish garrison at San Jose de Las Lajas, twenty miles southeast of Havana, abandoned their post and joined the insurgents. Many of the citizens accompanied the troops and carried ammunition with them. The news caused great excitement at the palace, and fresh troops were immediately sent to the post and order was restored. Before the troops arrived anarchy reigned, and when the troops reached the city many residents were shot down in the streets.

THIS THE DAY.

The Brooklyn Cable Will be Across by Night.

Today the cable from Brooklyn to Paducah is being laid, and will probably be strung by night. This work can be done quickly, but the putting in approaches, etc., will consume a much longer time.

WILL NOT LEAVE.

Justice Barnett Returns from Marshall County.

Justice R. H. Barnett returned this morning from Birmingham, Marshall county, where he has been at work on his father's estate. He was accompanied by his brother, Renos, who is preparing to go into business at Birmingham.

Justice Barnett says he will not move away from Paducah, as reported. His regular court day is tomorrow, and there is quite a large docket.

Big Barrels of Booz.

Yesterday perhaps the largest consignment of whiskey ever shipped from Paducah was sent out in three cars by Loeb, Bloom and Co., of Mississippi, in charge of Mr. Max H. Bronner, one of the firm. There were 160 barrels, and all were shipped together. Like all other liquor business, the liquor traffic has wonderfully increased since the election.

WANTED TO DIE.

SLASHED AT HIS THROAT.

In Justice Winchester's Office This Morning—He Got a $100 Fine.

CAPTURED NEAR CLARK'S RIVER.

"I'll submit the case to you," announced Sol Glass about noon to Justice Winchester, when he was arraigned on a charge of mauling his divorced wife, Mrs. Kerriller Glass.

He supported himself on the mantle-piece and began to weep bitterly. "This is a very grave charge against you," admonished Justice Winchester, who had first continued the case until Thursday, and fixed the bond of Glass at $25.

Just before he started out with Officer Jeff Barnhart to find a bondsman, he hesitated, turned, and said he would submit the case.

"You are charged with attempting to kill your wife, and with keeping her in continual fear of bodily harm, and with other culpable acts. You have done so contrary to law, and have no claim upon this woman. She is not your wife. I'll have to give you the full extent of the law."

"This spoke the oracle, Justice Winchester. I'd rather see my coffin than spend even fifty days in jail."

Kerriller, you oughtn't to have this done to me!" This came from a contrite heart.

"Well, Sol, you oughtn't to have done me like you did."

This is the sentimental colloquy that occurred between Glass and the woman he attempted to kill only yesterday. Both looked sorry but very determined.

These principals, Sol Glass, the wary, and his much abused and divorced wife, who has been mortally afraid of him for several months past, were face to face, both to get justice.

Sol leaned upon the mantle piece in the justice's office and wept bitterly. His hand stole into his pocket, and in an instant he drew forth his knife, one blade opened, and made a lunge at his opponent, making an attempt at self-destruction which happily was thwarted by the agility and presence of mind of Officer Jeff Barnhart, who seized the resolute arm just in time, with the exclamation: "Sol, you mustn't kill yourself."

There was great excitement among the spectators at this unexpected turn of affairs, and Mrs. Glass seemed relieved to see that there was protection near, and that her incorrigible husband, having no one else to cut, had decided to cut himself.

Justice Winchester passed sentence for $100, the extreme penalty of the law, and Solomon dried the lily secretions in the corner of his eyes. He said he would go to jail without resistance, and was safely incarcerated there by Officer Barnhart.

The capture of this man, who is a desperado on a small scale, was a skillful piece of detective work. As told elsewhere, Glass attempted to kill his wife yesterday afternoon. He first threatened to shoot her and then drew a knife on her.

She contrived to escape, and ran out into the road near Mechanicsburg, fortunately meeting Officer Barnhart. Her clothes were torn from her arms, and she warned the officer against going inside, saying that Glass would kill him. The officer went in and Glass threw his hand into his pocket and was quickly covered by the officer's pistol and forced to throw up his hands. He had already given the pistol to his daughter, however, and had nothing but the knife. Officer Barnhart had to let him go, having no warrant for his arrest and not having seen any of the difficulty.

This morning Officers Barnhart and Phillips were deputized by Sheriff Holland to go out and get Glass. All the deputy sheriffs and constables had been after the elusive miscreant for the past six or eight months, but could never capture him.

The officers encountered themselves in a buggy, buttoned up their coats so their stars wouldn't show and struck the trail.

About four miles from the city, on the Clark's river road, they met a crowd and began offering to trade horses. Nobody recognized them, and the coast was clear.

Officer Barnhart asked something about Sol Glass having horses to trade, and one old fellow remarked: "I hunt seed Sol Glass for nearly a year, till this mornin'. I seed him up the road lyin', an' I speck he's thar yit."

The officers proceeded up the road and met Glass, who was keeping in the middle of the road. He was arrested and made no resistance, and the officers would likely never have found out where he was if they had not played the "horse trade" racket, as they were about to abandon the search when they ascertained that the man they wanted was in the neighborhood.

There Will Be Two Tobacco Inspectors.

The three dissenting warehousemen will have an additional inspector of tobacco. This has virtually been settled, but as yet no election has been held, and none of the warehousemen seemed to know when it would be held.

Mr. Piper has entered into his new administration and there will likely be no trouble respecting his election.

SET FOR TUESDAY.

No New Developments—The Two Women Involved are Wanted.

The cases against Town Marshal Phil Lynn, for killing Miles Bradshaw at Brooklyn, and the cases against Bart and Boh Lynn and John Lemley, for killing Ben Ladd, at Brooklyn, have all been continued at Metropolis until next Tuesday. It is learned from a reliable source that Moll Edwards and Nora Laseley, who are believed to be accessories, and who were living with the murderers, have also been indicted, and found by the Illinois officers.

They are at present living in the western part of the city. If they have not been they will be as they are clearly accessories.

BROKE HIS LEG.

Harry Fuqua, Colored, Has a Leg Broken.

The Team is Supposed to Have Gotten Frightened at a Train.

This forenoon Harry and Heneberger's big team of black horses ran away near Sixth and Jones streets about 9:30 o'clock.

There was a big load of feed stuff on the wagon, which was being taken to the depot.

The horses took flight at a train, it is supposed, and threw the colored driver violently out, breaking his leg. His name is Harry Fuqua, and it is not the first time the team ran away with him.

The feedstuff was scattered all over the Sixth ward, it is said, but this is probably an exaggeration. The damage to the wagon will be considerable.

The wagon was one of the large coal vehicles, loaded with sacks of bran and meal for Capt. Farley. When the horses shied as the engine passed, one of the sacks fell on their feet, and the driver was thrown, the wheels passing over his leg.

Dr. White was called and dressed the injury, and it was found that the flesh was ground almost to a pulp and the bone was broken.

This afternoon it is thought that the limb will have to be amputated. Fuqua lives on North Tenth street.

MARIA WAS MAD.

She Wanted a Warrant, But Didn't Get It.

She Did Not Apply to Judge Sanders, According to the Latter's Statement.

Maria Bennett, colored, says this is an ungrateful world. She lives away up near Boyd's alley, and in days past has been a valuable auxiliary to the police force, she claims.

Among these things for which the police should be grateful to her, she says, are for keeping them informed relative to the whereabouts of Walter Crump, whom they caught within an ace of catching once, and for putting them onto Ben Jordan, who robbed the Wisdom residence on Jefferson street.

She applied for a warrant yesterday against some colored people of the neighborhood for maligning her. She says they charge her with having been in the penitentiary. It is said that she has been to one of these institutions, but was pardoned.

No warrant was issued, and today she was consulting a lawyer in regard to the matter, claiming that a warrant was refused her when she was entitled to one.

Judge Sanders, upon inquiry, stated that she had made no application to him for a warrant and hence he knew nothing whatever about the case. Marshal Collins said the woman was not entitled to a warrant, and for that reason one was not issued.

THE ALLARD CASE.

The Defendant, Oliver Allard, Has Been Very Ill.

The divorce case of Mrs. Vina Allard against Oliver Allard has been continued in the Metropolis court until the first day of the next April term of court. This was owing to the defendant's illness. Yesterday he was reported to be in a dying condition from pneumonia or some kind of trouble, and it was said he could not live until morning. He is confined to his home near Brooklyn, and this morning his nurse came to the city and reported that he was much better, and able to sit up.

A BAD BALLARDOITE.

Claims to Have Been Robbed by a Gang That Got Him Drunk.

"A little cold this morning, Judge," remarked Richard Wagner, a hold, bad bloke from Ballard county near Lovecoveville, as he took his seat on a recent row in the police court this morning.

"Humph!" observed Judge Sanders with a smile, as he adjusted his glasses, "that man must have been arrested for drunkenness and brought up before he got sober."

"What does the defendant say?" he asked Wagner after reading the charge of drunkenness from the docket.

"Well, I don't 'zackly know, Judge," he said. "All I remember is that I woke up in that dark place down there."

"Well, from your statement," jeeringly commented the Judge, "one would be led to believe that you were slightly under the influence of liquor." The three spectators, in the Auditorium laughed and the two new arrivals smiled, too, if they didn't know what it was about.

"One dollar and costs," adjudged his honor.

After court a crowd of idle lawyers and reporters gathered about Wagner, who had in addition to the tattered remnant of his jag a light moustache almost red and a mild countenance that shed a radiance almost equal to an electric light.

"I sint goin' to wuk this fine," he said with determination. "I'm jest goin' ter stay around and smoke 'er out. I don't work, no, not a bit of it. Why, gentlemen, I'm indignantly said, 'I don't even work at home. I've got a white man and a nigger that ter do my work there.'"

Sombody told him he would get written up in the newspapers. "I don't keer of I do," he said.

"them s—s of b—s down in Ballard, whar I live, won't believe anything like that on me. Why, I'm too respectable a man ter git drunk. They'll say it's a darned lie, they will."

Then he began getting penitent. He told Capt. Collins that he had been drugged or gotten drunk by several characters well known in police circles who robbed him of $27. As he was drunk no warrant was issued against him.

According to his story they drank him drunk, and then went through his pockets. He was not unconscious, but was powerless to do anything.

FRIDAY, DEC. 4, 1896.

SENATOR-ELECT FORAKER, of Ohio, would seem to have a desire to attract Senator Sherman. Probably a fear that the senior senator would occupy too much of the attention due the representatives of the great state of Ohio has something to do with Mr. Foraker's attitude.

The government revenue for the month of November fell $7,000,000 short of its disbursements. In the past five months, since the beginning of the current fiscal year, the deficit amounts to $40,000,000. It will probably amount to $70,000,000 by the time McKinley is inaugurated. So much for Democratic financing.

No plank of the Republican platform was plainer than that relating to the protection of American industries. The man whose name, more than that of any other in the country, was nominated and overwhelmingly elected. Does any sane man expect the Republican party to go back on this plank of its platform? If so, he will be disappointed.

In the terrible atrocities committed by Weyer do not lead to retaliation on the part of the Cubans it will be strange. The moderation and humanity shown by the Cubans thus far is remarkable, under the circumstances. If Weyer and a few of his chief officers, whose cruelties are well known, could be the subjects of Cuban vengeance, the civilized world would rejoice.

If the nomination of McKinley had any significance whatever, it meant protection to American industries. The first thing the voter thought of when he heard McKinley's name was protection to American industries and American labor. There was not a voter in the country of ordinary intelligence who did not understand this. The condition of the country demands it. The Republican congress and president will provide it.

Spain has sent 200,000 soldiers to Cuba and has in Cuban waters the major part of her navy, it has cost her hundreds of millions of money to carry on the war which has been sustained by the Cubans during all that time. They now have in the field well equipped armies aggregating 35,000 to 50,000 men, are in possession of the major part of the island, yet Mr. Cleveland is not sure they are anything more than a lot of bandits, and hesitates to give them even a word of encouragement. He is pretty nearly the only man in the United States who has not learned that the Cubans were certainly entitled to recognition a year ago.

The prejudices which it has been the mission of the free trade Democracy from antebellum times to foster, of the farmer against the manufacturer, of the agricultural West and South against the manufacturing East, are the outgrowth of blind bigotry and shortsightedness. The best allies the farmer has are the manufacturer and the other employers of labor. It is to them he must look for a market for his surplus products. Without them he would be dependent upon a foreign market in competition with the hundreds of thousands of laborers in manufacturing, thousands of them would enter the agricultural field in competition with him, and thus increase the product of the farms, while the number of consumers was decreased. It is the universal experience that the farmers in the vicinity of manufacturing industries are greatly benefited thereby. The reason for it is plain and should commend itself to the consideration of every thoughtful person.

The more manufacturing industries we have in operation the more prosperous is every farmer in the country.

Republican principles involve vastly more than merely a sound and stable currency; more than sterling honesty in all business transactions, whether national, state, municipal or private individual contracts are involved; more than an upright and impartial administration of all public trusts for the benefit of the whole people; more than the fearless maintenance of the national honor at home and abroad, in our relations with other nations, and the protection of the rights of American citizens in all parts of the world. All these things belong to the code of Republicanism, and under Republican rule none of them have ever been neglected. The record of America, under Republican party rule, has been one that would never bring the blush of shame to any cheek. It has been one upon which every American can justly pride himself. But there are other principles, which constitute no small part of the wool of Republicanism, and without which it would be unrecognizable. One, and perhaps the most important of these, is the protection of home industries and of the labor employed therein. This principle is so involved with the history and traditions of the party, so identified with every prosperous period in the history of the country, that to discard it would be to repudiate one of the most important and most cherished, one of the cardinal principles upon which the fabric of the party has rested. When, therefore, Mr. Hymn and other sound money Democrats, finding their whims associates running after strange gods, hope to induce Republicans to modify their views on the tariff question, in order to make it easy for them to step into the Republican party, they may be assured of disappointment. If they wish to identify themselves with the party which has made the most glorious history of this country, with the party under whose guidance the greatest progress any country ever made has been accomplished, they will be received with open arms. But they must take the party as they find it. Its principles will not be modified to suit their views, especially after so sorry an experience of the results of those views put into practice as has been realized in the past four years. In most things except in the matter of protection to home industries and American labor the sound money Democrats are in unison with the Republicans. But if they want to join our church they must accept our creed or at least not expect the creed to be changed in vital points to meet their tastes.

WHO CARRIED KENTUCKY? The returns show that McKinley received twelve of the thirteen electoral votes of Kentucky, and yet the claim is made by certain interested parties that he did not carry the state. This claim is a novel one, and if this style of reasoning be pursued to the extreme, a very peculiar conclusion is the result. For the sake of the argument, let it be supposed that in every individual state McKinley had received all the electoral votes save one. He would thus have received 402 electoral votes to Bryan's forty-five, the latter receiving only one vote in each state, and McKinley would, of course, have been elected. But, according to the argument used in the case of Kentucky, McKinley would not have carried a single state, as Bryan would have gotten one vote in each state. The anomalous condition would thus present itself of McKinley being elected president, without having carried a single state, a most absurd conclusion.

IN A HURRY.

Mayfield People Want Stone Punished.

Judge Moss Calls a Special Session of the Grand Jury.

Jim Stone, the alleged rapist, will probably be taken back to Mayfield the latter part of next week. Judge Moss, of the Circuit Court, has called a special session of the grand jury, as follows, and today it was impeached.

George Pryor, John McWell, A. J. Kaler, W. W. Hughes, Frank Gibson, J. E. Harris, W. S. French, S. M. Cobb, Rome Williamson, H. B. Latty, A. G. Yates, J. R. Hester, A. M. Whitlow, John Fay, P. D. Cannon, Will Austin, Ben Cook, J. O. Rutledge, U. F. Davis and Marion Collier.

Stone will not be taken back to Mayfield until all the witnesses are ready to appear, and everything is in readiness for a speedy trial. According to the Mayfield papers the disposition to lynch has been supplanted by a desire to let the accused first have a fair trial. If this had not been the case, the "Democrat" says, Judge Moss would never have called the grand jury, not desiring to shoulder the responsibility of the man's death by mob law.

COMMENDABLE MOVE.

Mr. George C. Wallace Makes a Wise Suggestion.

Will be a Great Benefit to the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. George C. Wallace, by the following letter, has started a commendable move for the good of the young men of Paducah.

The Y. M. C. A. is heartily in favor of the suggestion, and if carried out it will redound greatly to the good of the Y. M. C. A.

Communicated.
To the Editor of the Sun:
"There have recently appeared both in the columns of the Sun and other city papers a number of articles relative to the Young Men's Christian Association which have interested me not a little."

"In these articles the directors of the association stated the character of the work accomplished during the first year of operation and indicated also the larger possibilities for the second year, provided the institution received the proper support of the citizens of Paducah. They stated, moreover, that the condition under which the directors could undertake the work of the second year was that the needed funds should be assured by subscriptions, which, of course, implies that if the citizens are not interested enough in the association to co-operate in this practical way they will suspend operations."

"Looking at it from the standpoint of one who is interested in the welfare and the intellectual, moral and physical advancement of that great class of our population whose character determines the citizenship of the present and the immediate future, it would be a calamity if the Young Men's Christian Association were not to continue as a factor in the development of our city, and I should regret exceedingly to see its usefulness in our midst either curtailed or expended. In thinking the matter over it has occurred to me that if the newspapers were to take the matter up and open their columns for a popular subscription, the business men and other friends of good citizenship, having their attention thus definitely called to it would certainly rally to the support of the association."

"If this meets with your approval you are at liberty to enter my name for the sum of fifty dollars ($50) for this purpose. Yours truly,"

"Geo. C. WALLACE."

"EIGHT BELLS."

A Splendid Performance—Coming Attractions of the Near Future.

One of the largest audiences of the season greeted the first production of the "8 Bells" company at Morton's opera house last night. Although this musical pantomime comedy has enjoyed six years of unmitigated success, it was its initial appearance in Paducah.

It was a most satisfactory performance, and everybody was more than pleased. The acrobats were without doubt the best ever seen in Paducah. The specialties were good, and the mechanical scenery was something never before seen here. The Brothers Byrne in their feats, and the dancing of the Coulson Sisters, were among the "hits."

The concert of Edward Remenyi at Morton's next Monday evening promises to draw the largest crowd that ever attended anything of the kind in Paducah. Remenyi is by far the best violinist ever billed for a date and the only one with a universal celebrity who ever deigned to visit Paducah.

Polk Miller, the Southern poet and humorist, will give a reading at Morton's opera house on December 15, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Christian church. His negro dialect is known all over the country.

OUT PROSPECTING.

A Branch "Greenville" Tobacco Manufacturing May Be Resumed.

Messrs. H. N. and W. A. Martin, of Greenville, Ky., manufacturers of the celebrated Greenville tobacco, who formerly had a branch factory at Tenth and Madison streets, this city, are in the city with a view to considering the advisability of again operating the factory. It would be an advantage to the city to reclaim these gentlemen and the industry, and it is hoped that they will return.

The Messrs. Martin returned home today. They have been out looking at the crop, in addition to prospecting, and stated that they expected to return in about ten days and establish a new stentery.

THE THORNE BILL.

John M. Atherton Will Test Its Constitutionality.

Mr. John M. Atherton said this morning that the John M. Atherton & Company distillery at Athertonville was started yesterday. Operations are now being directed toward the making of private brands, in violation of the law that was passed by the adoption of the Thorne bill. This is done by Atherton & Company with a view to testing the constitutionality of the law.

Mr. Atherton said that the distillery would run only long enough to break the law, and would close down at the end of the week. He expects that the matter will get into the courts in January.

WRITTEN AT RANDOM.

Maj. T. T. Jones, the popular retired drummer, a day or two since resurfaced a bundle of old papers that are quite interesting.

The first is his application for citizenship, which was filed in 1858, and states that "Thomas T. Jones, of South Wales, has announced his intention of renouncing allegiance to Great Britain," etc.

Another paper was a certificate of citizenship from the British government, saying that Mr. Jones was still a subject of her majesty. This was in 1863, and debarred him from participating in the civil war, or rather protected him from prosecution. Although perhaps few know it, Col. Jones has never been naturalized, and cannot vote in the United States. He has been a resident of Paducah for many years.

A well known young professional man, who has acquired a somewhat extensive reputation for his conquests among the fair sex, recently called on a vivacious young lady, of another city, who was a guest of friends here.

He probably wanted to flirt a little, so one evening began pouring the "story of his life" into her attentive ears.

It may be that she was on to his racket, but at any rate before he asked for sympathy, before he asked her to become his own dear little wife, she anticipated his proposal by the cutting announcement:

"No! I am very sorry, Mr. —, but I have formed other attachments."

This was the conge, cold shoulder, and marble heart all at once, and with a vengeance. He is somewhat crestfallen now.

Officer Frank Orr says he had a hard time a night or two ago keeping his running mate, Officer Henry Longfellow Singery, from arresting the woman in VanCulin's window for improper exposure. His protestation prevailed, however, and no warrant was issued, which the woman will no doubt appreciate.

It is the general impression abroad, perhaps in Mayfield as well as other places, that if Jim Stone, the alleged rapist, now in jail at Louisville, is ever taken back here, he will lose no time in shaking the dust of earth from his feet and going hence via the Hemp & Limb route.

It is not likely that Stone can escape hanging, trial or no trial, for the conviction is too firm-rooted in the minds of many hundred people that he is the right man. He can't establish his innocence, if he has any, and they can't establish his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, for Mrs. Green can not identify him. Yet there is little doubt in the minds of the people, and even the most conservative admit that if there were would not be given the benefit of it. So it looks very much like the accused will not live to see another Christmas, and he seems slightly of that opinion himself.

Ashland City.....Danville.

NOTES.
The Dick Fowler left for Cairo this morning carrying a good load.

The Buckeye State from New Orleans passed up for Cincinnati last night.

The marks showed that the river only rose three and one half inches last night.

The towboat John Barrett passed up yesterday afternoon en route to Cincinnati.

This morning was a beautiful one down about the river front, and there was a land office business transacted on the levee.

The river did not rise as briskly as usual last night. The gauge registered this morning 20.2 a rise of only 3.4 inches in twelve hours.

With the assistance of the tug Ida and steamer John Barrett the Cowling succeeded in raising the tug City of Metropolis yesterday.

It is generally thought among river men that the river will be on a stand here by Sunday. But they believe that we will have a good looking stage of water here all the season.

The Will J. Cummins arrived out of the Tennessee river last night with a big load of merchandise and live stock. She leaves on her return to Florence Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

For some cause the name, Peter Housa, had to be passed from Capt. Johnson's steamer, and the name Grace Morris, registered on her instead. It is claimed that the Grace Morris inspection papers are not out and the change of her name could not be made until they are.

While there's still time is the right time to get rid of a cough or cold or a throat or chest trouble. These are the most serious of ailments, and the most serious in their results. The lungs are the most important and delicate organs of the human body; if harassed by a continuous hacking cough they will soon break down; that means consumption and consumption means death. Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey cures coughs, colds and throat and chest troubles of all descriptions. It never fails. Druggists sell it. For sale by Oehlschlaeger & Walker.
